The Barnyard Express is a mobile, educational farm center that visits fairs, festivals, events and school assemblies, giving humorous and educational farm animal shows.

John Forshe, better known as Farmer John, studied farming operations at Iowa State University. John helped develop and manage the Dominoes Pizza Petting Farm for 6 years. During this time he gave hundreds of animal shows helping thousands of children experience the farm. In 1993, John developed a mobile educational farm center entitled, Barnyard Express. The main attraction at the farm center is Farmer John's live farm animal shows. The 25 minute show is educational, uses audience participation and is presented in an entertaining format.

Between scheduled shows, Farmer John drives his miniature tractor around the fairgrounds giving goat milking demonstrations and interacting with the children.
